

IT'S PRETTY TO THINK

It's pretty to think that there are accidents.
 It's pretty to think that others are to blame.
 It's pretty to think that our intentions are pure.

But what if there were no accidents,
 and the Universe was fine-tuned to produce the greatest good for everything—beyond all ability to imagine?

But what if you could be joyful during times of natural tragedy
 because you KNOW humanity will, somehow, ultimately benefit.

But what if all events simply are, because they are,
 just happen because they happen, and the only action is to pick up the pieces and carry on—eliminating blame and guilt.

What if you could sit up from sleep and shake off
 your accumulated worry, pain, anger, blame and guilt?
 What if you knew those puppies were created by your sleeping mind?
 What if you could truly wake up if you wanted to?

Can you imagine living your life—
 with all its imagined ups and downs,
 with all its experienced joys and pains,
 with all its “good” times and otherwise—

Can you imagine Singing and Laughing
 all the way through life, just because?

Try.

Try again.

Keep on trying, and you are consciously aligning
 With a greater reality called: PEACE.

ISN'T THAT PRETTY TO THINK?
