

LOOKING FOR A PATH?

Looking for a Path?
Longing for a Way?
Wondering what your mission in life is?
Feeling a little envious of those who already have a Way?

Well Baby, here's the latest news flash:
Whatever you're doing, is Your Way.

There is no other Way for you, except what you're doing.

You can't do anything but what you're doing,
Unless you change your mind, and do something else.
Then THAT is Your Way.

You are who you are.

Your life is Your Way.

The mystery of The Way isn't hidden, not occult,
But hung out to flap in the wind
By practically every school, worth its name,
Since before Delphi.

Do the very best you can in all circumstances,
With the maximum integrity you can muster,
The greatest ethics you understand,
The purest love you can generate, and
The deepest compassion you can rally.

Now, throw into that mix: being kind, generous, even-tempered,
And toss in more than a tad of humility.

That's enough to wrinkle your brain with the trying and
Keep you from worrying about finding Your Way.
Keep you from frantically searching here and there,
Trying this Way, then another Way, because somebody said
That's THE WAY—as if there were only one Way.

Baby Love,
You were born into Your Way,
And you're already living it,
Whether or not you know it.

Whether you agree or not,
The life you're living is
The Way your Soul chose to incarnate.

Now, release those grandiose ideas
About becoming a messiah.

Suck up your arrogance,
And get down to the real business of life.

Just get over yourself.

It's time to work on perfecting Who You Truly Are.

The best news is that perfecting never ends.
