

EYES OF THE BEHOLDER

The difference between “messy” and “dirty” is often
Missed by the conditioned eyes of the beholder.

Messy can be seen as comfortable or artistic,
Depending on the viewer’s interpretation.

Dirty can only be seen as unclean, regardless of the eyes.

For some, the degree of unclean must be great to be seen.

For others, clean-but-messy is often mistaken for dirty.

The “Peace that passeth all understanding” begins
With allowing things to be the way they are—for the most part.
The other part lies in “Know Thyself.”

One must dig deep, scratch through the layers, and peel back hide,
To get to the truth about self-created, unnecessary discomfort.

That deep truth may be that we perceive
Mess, and dirt, through another’s eyes.

Not authentic living, Baby Love.
Un-natural it is, dancing to another’s tune.

Time to shift into being yourself, being who you truly are.
And being confident that you’re perfect
Exactly the way you are—regardless.

Tall order to re-program DNA, but not impossible.
Practice pretending you’re being
Exactly Who-You-Are, with no apologies,
For long enough,
And you will arrive at authenticity.

You will be living your own life, not someone else’s.

That means Peace.
